

Greg Stubblefield (Vice Chair)

Executive Vice President and Chief Strategy Officer Enterprise Holdings

Greg Stubblefield is Executive Vice President and Chief Strategy Officer for Enterprise Holdings Inc., and serves on the company's corporate board. Under Mr. Stubblefield's leadership, Enterprise Holdings has significantly expanded its global footprint and international franchise network, with a focus on Europe, the Middle East, Africa and Asia-Pacific, including China. Mr. Stubblefield also oversees the company's travel-industry-development and corporate-business-development teams as well as its Marketing & Communications organization, where he leads the strategic growth of the company's portfolio of brands – Enterprise Rent-A-Car, Alamo Rent A Car and National Car Rental. In addition, Mr. Stubblefield leads Enterprise Holdings' global sustainability and urban mobility strategies – including Enterprise CarShare and Enterprise RideShare, a vanpooling operation designed to reduce the environmental impact of daily commutes and personal transportation. He also oversees Zimride by Enterprise, the largest web-based ridesharing and carpooling network in North America.

Enterprise Holdings operates – through an international network of regional subsidiaries and independent franchises – more than 9,000 fully staffed neighborhood and airport locations in more than 80 countries. Enterprise Holdings is the largest car rental company in the world, as measured by revenue, fleet and employees. In addition, Enterprise Holdings is the most comprehensive service provider and only investment-grade company in the U.S. car rental industry. The company and its affiliate Enterprise Fleet Management together offer a total transportation solution, accounting for more than 1.7 million vehicles throughout the world. Combined, these businesses – accounting for $19.4 billion in revenue in fiscal year 2015 – include the Car Sales, Truck Rental, CarShare, Rideshare vanpooling, Zimride, Exotic Car Collection, and Flex-E-Rent services, all marketed under the Enterprise brand name. The annual revenues of Enterprise Holdings, one of America's largest private companies, and Enterprise Fleet Management rank near the top of the global travel industry, exceeding many airlines and most cruise lines, hotels, tour operators and online travel agencies.

A recognized leader in the travel industry, Mr. Stubblefield serves on the U.S. Travel and Tourism Advisory Board and co-chairs the Board's Infrastructure subcommittee. As the advisory body to the Secretary of Commerce, the Board provides counsel on current tourism industry concerns, emerging issues and government policies, including car rental excise taxes. Mr. Stubblefield also serves on the U.S. Travel Association's CEO Roundtable on behalf of the Alamo, Enterprise and National car rental brands and represents Enterprise Holdings on the World Travel and Tourism Council. Mr. Stubblefield was honored with a 2015 Travvy Award, which recognizes the Most Innovative Car Rental Executive in the travel industry.

At the University of California, Berkeley, Mr. Stubblefield earned a football scholarship and graduated with a social science degree in 1982. He then began his career as an Enterprise Rent-A-Car Management Trainee in Southern California. Mr. Stubblefield worked his way up the ranks to Rental Branch Manager, Area Manager and Regional Vice President. Next he was appointed Corporate Vice President at the company's St. Louis headquarters, managing 10 regional subsidiaries throughout the U.S. Later, he held the post of Senior Vice President of International Operations, leading the expansion and development of Enterprise's business outside the U.S. In 1999, Mr. Stubblefield returned to Southern California to become Executive Vice President and General Manager. In 2003, he was named President and General Manager and, one year later, President of Operations in California and Hawaii.

When National Car Rental and Alamo Rent-A-Car were acquired in 2007, Mr. Stubblefield was appointed President of National and Alamo, playing a key role in the operational and cultural integration of the two brands into the company's network of regional subsidiaries. Mr. Stubblefield was appointed to his current position at the company's St. Louis headquarters in 2009.

Mr. Stubblefield has taken on leadership roles in civic and community organizations as well. He served two terms as Board Chair for the United Way of Greater Los Angeles and was an Executive Committee Member for both the California Business Roundtable and the Los Angeles Urban League. In St. Louis, Mr. Stubblefield is a member of the Mercy Health Foundation Board of Directors and the Teach for America Regional Advisory Board.
